Dixie Chicks just now the Chicks
WASHINGTON — Grammy-winning country group the Dixie Chicks have dropped the word “Dixie” from their name, now going by the Chicks.

The band’s social media accounts and website were changed Thursday to refer to the new name for the band, which is made up of Natalie Maines, Martie Maguire and Emily Strayer.

The band also recognized that the name was already in use by a band in New Zealand.

“A sincere and heartfelt thank you goes out to ‘The Dixie Chicks’ for their gracious gesture in allowing us to share their name. We are honored to co-exist together in the world with these exceptionally talented sisters,” the band said in a statement.

The term “Dixie” refers to Southern U.S. states, especially those that belonged to the Confederacy.

Judge won’t block book by Trump’s niece
WASHINGTON — A New York judge Thursday dismissed a claim by Donald Trump’s brother that sought to halt the publication of a tell-all book by the president’s niece, saying the court lacked jurisdiction in the case.

Judge Anna K. Kennedy said the case, Trump v. Trump, “involves purely political questions and is appropriately resolved in the political branches of the government.”

The motion filed earlier this week sought an injunction barring Mary Trump from publishing the book “Too Small to Fail,” which is set to be released Aug. 26.

Kennedy said the suit was “entirely inappropriate here” and that the court was not the appropriate forum to hear the dispute.

Robert Trump’s lawyers lashed out in a court papers saying that Mary Trump and others had signed a settlement agreement that would prohibit her from writing the book.

“Magic School Bus’ heads to big screen
SCHOLASTIC ENTERTAINMENT announced Thursday that it will produce a live-action movie adaptation of the popular book series, “The Magic School Bus Rides Again.”

In 2010 Glen and Kim Campbell hit on the charts with “Wichita Lineman,” one of Campbell’s signature songs. They were married 29 years.

Kim won the suit, she was subjected to online harassment and death threats. Kim's lawyers filed court papers saying that Mary Trump, the president's elder brother, who died in 1981. An online description of her book, “Too Small to Fail” reads, “too much and Never Enough: How My Family Created the World’s Most Dangerous Man.”

Moon presses for peace on war anniversary

By Shinkle Kang

SEOUL — South Korean President Moon Jae-in urged North Korea to resume talks on war-ending efforts, as the two rivals faced new tension over the start of the war that engulfed the peninsula 70 years ago.

Moon made the plea to North Korean leader Kim Jong-un during a speech Thursday recounting the conflict that began on June 25, 1950, and South Korea's subsequent rise to become one of Asia's most advanced economies. He called for continued confidence-building measures between the two sides — “ones of national power” and said peace and unifica- tion was a duty owed to those who suffered through the war.

“I hope that North Korea will also boldly embark on an endeavor to end the most successful war in world his- tory,” Moon told hundreds of veterans and other digni- ees gathered at Seoul Race for the occasion. “If we are going to talk about unifi- cation, we have to achieve peace first, and only after peace and only after peace, then also will we be able to finally say the door to unification can become friendly neigh- bors first.”

The Korean War resulted in the death of more than 3 million people, including many farmers working in their fields and children and civilians who were killed by bomb- ing strikes, Italian officials said.

The country is continuing to fight a separate, smaller epidemic of the disease that began in the northeastern city of Mbandaka.

Lightning kills dozens as monsoon rains begin

Mumbai, India >> An估计 30 people died in violent rainstorms in northeastern India on Thursday, including many farmers working in their fields and children and civilians who were killed by lightning and flooding rainstorms.

The storms came as the yearly monsoon rains began in northern India, sweeping across the subcontinent and drenching cities and towns in their path. “Nature’s fury was at its worst today,” said Meter Kumar Tamrakar, a top police official in the state of Bihar, which reported on the Facebook page that 30 people across the state had died of lightning strikes. Officials also reported widespread damage to property across the state. Lightning kills thousands of peo- ple in India every year. Bishop facing inquiry forced to leave diocese
